Interim Summary

Site is land/structure. Structure is basically angular, hill, raised up, very solid; ^{flat topped} land is up-and-down, rather rocky, but vegetated. A sense of "monumental"ness seems to be inherent in the place.

The Structure is a long, massive edifice of many smaller rooms, corridors + large rooms; it has a very pronounced historical sense to it, and although it still seems to be used for specific ongoing purposes it is also a center of interest for sightseeing, a "pilgrimage," and is valued for its heritage value. It has some relevance as a national "Shrine" + has meaning for pride, legitimacy, restoration, establishment, etc.

Within a large, high ceilinged room surrounded by tasteful dark woodwork is a heavy wood table on which something of especial significance is lying for display. This object is the focus of interest for those who enter, and has much meaning for the people that visit.

Other ^{varied} items of historic interest are also contained in this structure. ~~The~~ structure is surrounded by area of relatively heavy vegetation; lots of wild ^{plants} were present. ^{There's} there seems to be European.
